

Data Lineage

Column level data lineage is available for the entire model, derived from user-defined source mappings and class-to-class mappings during the process of generating the solution. This information can be used to generate dynamic Data Flow diagrams (table level) in the UI as well as HTML documentation (column level). It is also exported to the Data Catalog database for reporting purposes.

Data flow diagram